A FEW CHAPTERS OF A TRIP TO CALIFORNIA.

BY Gordon S. Chapman, National Editorial Association, on Occasion of Recent Press Convention Held on Pacific Coast.

Written for The Sea Coast Echo.

San Francisco, Cal.—Through the courtesy of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, members of the National Editorial party were given an automobile trip over this city today. Leaving the Cliff Hotel early in the morning, in seventy-seven-passenger limousines, guided by a squad of the city's finest traffic cops, the procession proceeded through the business district to the civic center. This group of buildings comprise the City Hall, civic auditorium, with seating capacity of 12,000, State building and library, and represents an investment of twenty-five million dollars.

A visit was made along the bay shore to the Presidio, where the government maintains a large military force. On the drive we observed a number of the fair buildings that were used for this world event in 1915. Near here is the largest outdoor swimming pool in the world, maintained by the city. Through Golden Gate Park, the largest in the United States, comprising more than a thousand acres, a wonderful view of Golden Gate was obtained. One of the latest additions to the park is the Palace of Legion of Honor, a replica of the one in Paris. This was donated by the city by Mrs. A. B. Spreckels and contains an immense auditorium, where daily pipe organ recitals are enjoyed.

This beautiful park is all "hand made." The top soil was hauled in hills leveled, hand-cut stone used for ornamentation. In the park are two giant Dutch wind mills that provide water for irrigation and the six lakes. Herds of buffalo and other wild animals provide amusement for the thousands that visit this place daily. Here we saw a large flock of sheep used for clipping the bright green lawns.

A pause was made at the Memorial Museum, a gift to the city of the late M. H. De Young, publisher of the San Francisco Chronicle. Art exhibits from various parts of the world are displayed here annually.

The trip to Twin Peaks to see St. Helena mountain, thirty miles away, was quite interesting. Beneath these high peaks has been built a tunnel one and one-half miles long to provide means of communication with the new residential section recently opened up. On the drive to the steamship pier we viewed the wholesale section of the city that is the real backbone of the city's commerce.

Low freight rates enable shippers to enjoy many advantages which necessarily means lower prices when purchased in San Francisco.

Aboard the Hawaiian liner, Maui, an elegant luncheon was served the editorial party by the Matson Navigation Company. During the luncheon period the singers from the San Francisco Real Estate Board rendered a number of popular songs while other entertainment features added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. In appreciation of the services of Mr. and Mrs. Justus F. Craemer, of Orange, California, who have been so generous of their time on the present tour, members of the Association showed in a small way their appreciation of love and esteem by presenting gifts to each. Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Read, of Los Angeles, who also have lent much to the pleasure of the tour, were also remembered with presents. Elaborate menu folders were presented to each guest by the steamship company as souvenirs of the occasion. After lunch an inspection of the ship was made.

Contributing much to the pleasure of the day was Mrs. Mabel T. Johnson, in charge of the courtesy department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Johnson organized this department several years ago and it was the first in the world.

Since that time she has been instrumental in organizing similar departments of other organizations throughout the country. This lady is in charge of all entertainment features of the Chamber.

Lots of editors have gone to sea, but it isn't everyone that goes in a ferry-boat. This, however, was the novel experience of the four hundred or more delegates to the National Editorial Association's visit here today when the party embarked on the Southern Pacific Company's good ferry San Mateo. They hit it out to the heads, which the mariners' way of saying the Golden Gate, and then after looking the city over from the justly celebrated "Potato Patch," returned to port.

From there they skirted the shores of Richland, Hunter's Point, seven or eight miles of new concrete piers, and back again to their starting point. It was a three-hour journey and considering that the San Mateo was under full speed the entire time, it gave the visitors fairly valuable proof of the assertion that San Francisco's bay is the largest land-locked harbor in the world.

The few days were made possible through the co-operation of the Southern Pacific Company, with the Chamber of Commerce, and followed a colorful luncheon aboard the Matson Navigation Company's liner, Maui. It was a perfect day on the bay, a fair breeze and smooth surface. All of the editors, on their return, admitted they were glad to be home, and while many of them spent the greater part of their time against the salient points of the city, some turned over only to the pleasure of the sun and the shade of the trees.

REALTY ACTIVITY IS EVIDENCED BY NUMEROUS SALES

Sales Aggregating Some $30,000 Reported in Bay Section Recently—Mrs. Levy, of the Bay and New Orleans' largest individual purchaser.

Real estate transfers and sales are picking up in the Bay and surrounding territory, if the recent reported sales can be taken as an indication. From the office of C. Greer Moore was reported the sale of a home on Hancock street near Balletine street, belonging to Henry Egloff, sold to Thos. G. Smith, of New Orleans, for a consideration of $5,500. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet on Hancock with a depth of 135 feet. Mr. Smith plans to occupy this house.

Mrs. Isaac Levy, of Bay St. Louis and New Orleans, has recently purchased considerable property in the Bay, among the pieces bought being the following: Five pieces of property formerly owned by V. C. Cuevas, two of which were sold through Mrs. H. S. Carmichael, these being a lot on Washington street with a frontage of 75 feet by 108; consideration, $1,500; and 12 acres on the Old Spanish Trail near the Bay which brought $3,600. From Mr. Cuevas himself Mrs. Levy purchased a small place near the Alta Vista subdivision, this being bought through A. Palmer Lott, Coast representative of this company. These lots were 1 in Block 1; consideration, $1,500; and Lot 1 in Block 3; price, $1,500. Mrs. Levy has also purchased the Mrs. O. J. Gilbert property on Front street near the western edge of town, 120 feet frontage with a depth of approximately 2,000 feet, extending to the L. & N. railroad, the purchase price being quoted at $20,000. Through Mrs. Carmichael Mrs. Levy bought a lot on St. Francis street, 40 foot frontage, formerly owned by A. Favre and E. J. Gex; consideration, $1,500. From H. L. Kergosin Mrs. Levy purchased an attractive lot for a consideration of $750. This brings the total of her recent purchases to $43,750 and shows her belief in the future prosperity of the Bay section.

Other desirable lots not yet reported in the Alta Vista subdivision and the occasion was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the 1926 tour. After dinner the editors toured Chinatown, a fascinating district of exotic shops filled with beautiful silks, chinaware and objects of art from the Orient. They were surprised to find the Chinese now live on the friendliest terms with the people of San Francisco and that Chinatown is a favorite shopping and recreation center for all. With 10,000 inhabitants, in the heart of the American city, it is the second largest Chinese colony outside of China. (To Be Continued.)

DR. WM. CAIN SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY

Dr. Wm. Cain, local veterinarian who lives on the Bay-Kiln road, suffered a painful injury one night last week, when he was shot by his own gun that accidentally went off, wounding him in two fingers on the left hand, burning his hair and wounding his left hand. According to the best information obtained, he was returning home on an L. & N. train and went to sleep. When awakened by the conductor for the Bay St. Louis stop he stooped over to pick up his bag, or medical kit, one strap of which seemed to have been loosened. A report of a gun being fired was heard and the conductor, who had seated himself behind Dr. Cain, totally ignorant of the shot, looked down into his bag to see the smoke issuing from it. Then he noticed that his left hand had two fingers badly shattered and further investigation showed his hair singed and the bullet embedded in his left hand. The hand was treated in the Bay and it is hoped that the fingers will knit back, though the wound is quite serious. As to the cause of the shot, the best evidence seems to be an assumption that, though the gun had the clip off and the safety on, one of the bullets evidently hung on, and the jarring of the train had shaken the safety off, and when Dr. Cain started to pick up the bag that contained the gun the attendant movement allowed the gun to shoot. It is understood that Dr. Cain is doing well.

A. PALMER LOTT ELECTED STATE DELEGATE TO NATIONAL LEGION CONVENTION

A. Palmer Lott, of Bay St. Louis and Crystal Springs, returned Thursday from Vicksburg, where he attended as a delegate to the state convention of the American Legion that convened there Aug. 30-31. Mr. Lott is commander of the Hilton-Cottenham Post of Crystal Springs and represented that post at the state meet and carried by proxy the vote of the Clement Bortens post of the Bay and Hancock county. Mr. Lott reports an interesting session at Vicksburg. He is particularly interested in Legion work, having been active in its organization and propagation for seven years, both in California and Mississippi, having served as national delegate from the state organization to the national convention for four years and having been state delegate for five years. He has served as a leader in Legion athletic programs, having been national chairman of the American Legion Athletic Commission in 1926 and promoted and staged the Olympic games at San Francisco in 1928, and further with the Legion basket ball team at these games won the national championship in basket ball there. Mr. Lott plans to take this winning team and another team that shall be picked from the Legion of Luigi in Mississippi next year during the second expeditionary tour of the state.

Another injustice done with the present assessment is that the property up around Dunbar avenue was assessed for more per foot than the land in the heart of the business section. An unfair proposition. The Perkins estate was raised from $15,000 to $22,000, evidently unfair when we consider some of the property assessed in the business section.

Property on unpaved streets are assessed as much and in many instances more per front foot than property on paved streets and in the heart of the city.

In my opinion, the property as now assessed is not fair, just or equitable.

The people are not fairly assessed.

The present assessment, if permitted to stand, will cause dissatisfaction with the people and will drive from our town a class of people that we want.

When the Hancock county board of supervisors meets next week one of the main things that will be taken up is the making of a budget for the year, expenditures including all county-wide salaries and general expenses. It is understood that the Mayor refused to permit same to be entered in the minutes, although the law gives me that right and he has no right to refuse same.

A copy of the above was handed by me to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen to be entered on the minutes of the board when I voted "No" on the adoption of the assessment roll.

The Mayor refused to permit same to be entered in the minutes, although the law gives me that right and he has no right to refuse same.

COUNTY TAXES FOR YEAR TOTAL SUM OF $6,763,685.44

DR. SHIPP REPORTS ON EXECUTIVE MEET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Recapitulation of County Assessment Shows Increase of Three-Quarters of a Million Taxes for Coming Year—Better Realty Values.

A. Favre, acting circuit and chamber clerk, has completed his recapitulation of the tax rolls of the county, following the recommendations and changes made by the board of supervisors at the July meeting. The assessment of all real, personal and railroad taxes for Hancock county for the coming year totals $6,763,685.44, according to the information prepared by Mr. Favre. This allows for an increase of about three-quarters of a million dollars assessment for the county over the assessment last year and is due to the new developments in the county and the increased interest and values in realty.

The total for real assessment is $4,432,550.12, which shows an increase over the rolls submitted to the board by E. Van Whittlefield, assessor, whose total for real assessment was $3,418,277.12. The board assessment for personal taxes is $1,265,687.32, to Mr. Whittlefield's assessment of $1,083,355.32. The railroad assessment for last year was $1,065,440 and no further figures for this assessment have been given this year, so the total assessment is based on this figure.

Mr. Favre has been working quite steadily on this recapitulation work for several weeks and completed his work early this week, ready to submit the finished rolls to the board at its meeting next week.

Mr. Favre has been working quite steadily on this recapitulation work for several weeks and completed his work early this week, ready to submit the finished rolls to the board at its meeting next week.

Wednesday night into two equal numbers, the division being alphabetical, with the first seventeen on the roll being the first team and the last seventeen the second team. These two teams are pitted against each other in an attendance contest that shall last through the month of September, the losing team to be hosts at the first October meeting to the winners. A bit of keen competition in this respect is anticipated by the club as a result of the contest.

Following the meeting the board of directors, officers and chairmen of committees met in a short executive session to discuss the program for the local club for the year.

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS

I, having voted "No" on the approval of the assessment roll as amended, I now desire to explain my vote, making this my explanation, not only for the benefit of the board but for the benefit of the public as well. When we went over the assessment roll I protested on some of the changes being made, but my protest was not considered. I did not want to enter a protest of record on each piece because it would have filled the minutes book, so I decided to wait until the whole thing was through and then enter one objection and explain my reasons. I approve of some of the assessments, but there are, in my opinion, gross inequality and great injustice has been done some of the people in my ward. In the past year the system was changed and the Mayor fixed the figures without consulting the member from the ward being assessed. When the assessment was fixed without considering the depth of the lot, the kind of land and where located. Had the member from the ward where the assessment was being made make the suggestions as to the amount the property should be assessed. I thought we would do this at this meeting. NEW FARM EDUCATION.

Drastic changes in the methods of farm education heretofore employed were decided upon at recent conference between federal and state authorities held at Fort Collins, Colo.

Agricultural education in the past has been directed mainly toward securing the production of larger crops, through improved machinery, better methods of cultivation, and other means designed to produce a maximum yield. But experience has proved that merely raising larger crops will not solve the farmers' problem. In fact, overproduction has caused the surplus of farm products which it has been sought to counteract by various measures of legislative relief.

The new program of education will stress the business side of farming, including financing, management and marketing. It will emphasize the idea that farming is a business, and as such must be carried on with the same careful attention to details of management as is necessary in any manufacturing or commercial enterprise.

Another important phase of the new educational scheme is the plan to give systematic instruction to men and boys who may not be able to attend regular agricultural schools.

The system proposed by the conference is in line with the most advanced thought and practice in agricultural instruction, and it should be productive of greater efficiency in farm management, the serious study of which has been sadly neglected in the past.

IN DEFIADE OF WARNING.

News dispatches from the section of the Louisiana coast devastated by a tropical storm weak tell the familiar story of excursionists and fishermen who matched their judgment of the weather against the judgment and warnings of the trained scientific observers of the United States weather bureau, went to sea in the face of a threatened hurricane and never came back.

"We've had these warnings before, and nothing ever came of it," they said to their friends when they sailed away.

The patriarch Noah argued with just such people when the Ark was ready to float.

The wise men of Pompeii warned of the dangers of the rumbling volcano that later burst forth in all its fury and buried thousands in hot ashes.

It is human nature—that is, the nature of some humans—to set their opinions against the statements of tried and tested authority. Sometimes they win their desperate gamble. Often they lose.

On the Mississippi Coast, where weather as near to perfect as weather can be rules throughout the year, we have the same liability to tropical storms that our neighbors on the Gulf Coast from Mexico to the Florida Straits have, the same which threatens the people of the Atlantic coast, from Miami to Labrador, and the same which causes occasional anxiety in the Pacific coast and on the Great Lakes.

Wherever the land and the seas meet, the winds will blow, and frequently the sea storms sweep a thousand miles inland, wreaking their fury on cities and villages in the Mississippi Valley and the southeastern states.

Here we are protected in considerable measure by the long curving sweep of the Louisiana delta and its outlying islands by the sandy barriers of the Chandeleurs, Cat Island, Ship Island, Horn Island and Petit Bois. No seashore country in the world could hope for greater safety against the wind and tides of West Indian storms.

Yet, no man, woman or child can afford, today or next week, or next year, or twenty years from now, to say, as they said in Louisiana last week:

"We've had these warnings before and nothing ever came of it."

There should be no sleeping at the rates when the hosts of the Assyrians march across the desert.

As the judgment of the elders of the city ruled in the ancient cities of Palestine, so should the judgment of trained observers and qualified scientists rule in these later days when storms are abroad above the seas.

A hundred years may pass and no storm ever strike the Mississippi Coast, but when the weather man lies his red flag no man, except a fool or a madman, can afford to laugh at them.

FISHERMEN VINDICATED.

From time immemorial fishermen have held almost exclusive right and title to charter membership in the Order of Sons of Ananias. True, occasionally some prevaricator in other lines of effort has made a puny challenge to their supremacy—the hunter and golf liar, for example—but with little success.

Now comes a fisherman's champion who apparently clinches the argument. Col. Ed Landvoigt, editor emeritus of the Forrest City, Ark., Times-Herald, in a recent issue of that excellent publication relates some incidents which should vindicate the fisherman's claims for all time. He says:

"A boy on White river saw a big catfish swimming beneath the water, plunged overboard and made pursuit, finally after swimming a mile he, diving, drove the fish into a cave and captured it.

"Next, a man on the Arkansas river seized a huge fish by the tail, was dragged overboard, but with a bulldog grip he held on, was carried down the river for a mile or so, most of the time under water, but at last wriggled the fish to capture.

"Another one from Florida, where a fisherman hooked a large tarpon, when he discovered that a shark was about to share the sport with him, he jumped overboard and shooed the shark away."

Col. Landvoigt, an oldtimer, but he preserves the zest and enthusiasm of youth. He knows a good lie when he sees it. We hope he may live to write a companion book to Isaac Walton's "The Compleat Angler." He might call it "The Compleat Angler."

Mrs. May Dunfee, of St. Clairville, O., has been appointed sheriff to succeed her husband, who was killed in a gun battle with rum runners.

Antiquated methods of transportation are unsuited to modern commercial activities, if one may judge from the experience of Denzil Smith, of Clarkburg, Va. He attempted to deliver liquor on horseback, when he was arrested and his horse confiscated.

Robert Rollings, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, apparently have some old

AIR MAIL RECORDS.

Plots of the United States air mail service again have been indulging in the popular sport of breaking records. Their latest feat cut the time between New York and Chicago to 6 hours, 27 minutes. Schedule time for the trip is 8 hours, 45 minutes.

Earl Ward, pilot on the New York-Cleveland leg of the journey encountered stiff gale over the Alleghenies, but landed in Cleveland in 3 hours, 3 minutes, after leaving New York. Then Bill Williams took up the flight and completed the record-breaking trip.

At Chicago the mail for the northwest was picked up by Ed Ballough and carried to St. Paul, the total time between New York and St. Paul being a little more than 9 1/2 hours.

Schedule time for this trip is 13 hours, 30 minutes.

Air mail flyers have demonstrated that aerial transportation is entirely practical, and not attended by very great danger when conducted by well-trained and careful pilots. Plans for great extensions of this service are being made, with a view to placing air mail contracts with private concerns as an encouragement to civil aviation.

To the skillful and intrepid airmen of the postal service is due great credit for placing commercial aviation in this country on a sound and dependable basis.

A TRIPLE HOLIDAY.

It happens that Labor Day falls on Sept. 6 this year, this date being also Lafayette Day and the anniversary of the first Battle of the Marne.

Labor Day, as is well known, is always celebrated on the first Monday in September. It was first recognized by Congress in 1894 when an act was passed making it a national holiday for the District of Columbia and for all federal establishments.

It had been made a legal holiday in twenty-seven states and one territory, and it is now recognized in all states except Alabama and Wyoming, although it is celebrated in these also by celebrations and exercises in honor of labor.

Lafayette Day is not a legal holiday, but it is celebrated in ten states, including New York, it being the anniversary of the birth of Gen. Lafayette, the gallant Frenchman who so greatly aided Gen. Washington during the Revolutionary War, and who became major-general in the American army at the age of 19.

The first battle of the Marne, in which Gen. Joffre attacked the enemy at dawn on Sunday, Sept. 6, 1914, checked the first German advance of the World War, and drove back the Kaiser's armies in six days of terrific fighting, after they had seriously threatened to capture Paris.

Thus we may celebrate the dignity of labor, the valor of Lafayette, and the victory of Joffre all on the same day, Monday, Sept. 6.

SIDE LIGHTS.

(By Marcus B. Darnall.)

In recent dispatches covering their death, Rudolph Valentino was given columns of space to inches devoted to Dr. Charles W. Eliot. Valentino died at 31 after five or six years as a movie star. Dr. Eliot died at 92 after an unprecedented career as a scientist, educator, author and publicist, which included forty years as active president of Harvard. Such is fame.

Fred Clevenger of Rushville, Ind., appeared to have solved the problem of getting into business without capital. He is said to have stolen lumber for a house, chicken coops and hog pens, which he built with stolen tools, stocked with stolen chickens and pigs, which he fed with stolen corn. Neighbors became suspicious and had him arrested when he sold $300 worth of chickens in a single week. It is sometimes unwise to be too ambitious.

Section No. 2. That the improvement shall consist in a general way of the following:

ATTEST: SYLVAN J. LADNER, Sec.

PETITION FOR PARDON.

To the Honorable Henry L. Whittfield,

Governor of the State of Mississippi.

We, the undersigned residents of Hancock County, Mississippi, respectfully petition your excellency to pardon Will Flax, who was convicted of manslaughter at the Hancock County Court House, of Hancock County, Mississippi, and in support of executive clemency would show as follows:

Will Flax, a Negro, was born in 1890, and while waiting for the women to return to the automobile, while Will Flax was sitting in the automobile, the head maid struck him several times and threatened to cut his hair. When Will Flax spoke to the maid asking her not to strike him, she struck him again. Will Flax then got out of the automobile, holding a knife in a threatening and angry manner and told Will Flax he would kill him. Will Flax was sitting in the automobile, where Will Flax was sitting, and when he had one foot on the running board, Will Flax shot him once in the head. Will Flax then ran away.

Will Flax was the aggressor and Will Flax shot in self defense.

We believe if your excellency could spare the life of Will Flax, we would be greatly relieved.

We feel certain that Will Flax is innocent.

He was condemned and if he was guilty in the sight of God, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty, he should be punished.

We believe that if he was guilty,

PRESS PICKINGS BY REICUAS

Chicago's Curious.

The Windy City has resurrected a three-year-old ordinance and the chief of police has ordered its enforcement. The ordinance's intention is to the effect that all children under 16 years of age are prohibited from the streets after the hour of 10 o'clock unless accompanied by their parents.

Chief Morgan Collins has instructed his "finest" to arrest them. Thus, petting parties of the adolescent and foolish youth are to be eliminated from the dusty corners of the boozey city, and a crisp put in the young seekers-of-romance.

The orders are to arrest the youngers, fine the parents, or first offense and put the girls in the Bastille on the second.

August 31 was the time to start and the chief put out 300 kid-trackers on the job. The latest news items have it that this bunch of cops not only had their hands full, but they demonstrated the fact that they were big judges of ages as they pulled in a lot of 20-year-old janes who have graduated from the kid ranks for many moons past.

It is for the protection of these errant females that this law is enforced, but the effort to have them realize it is almost futile and drastic measures have to be taken.

The effect of Chicago's attempt in the premises will be keenly watched by other cities because the same condition obtains in every city in the United States.

Swimming.

Men and women have been swimming ever since Adam jumped overboard to pick pond lillies for Eve.

Up to these ultra-modern times men have had nearly all the lime-light because of the shyness of the fair sex, who have been reluctant to show their forms to inquisitive gazers. Now they have out-grown all that, what with bathing beauty shows et al, an ehe dame is coming to the front.

The prowess of woman in aquatic sports came to greatest prominence when "Trudie" Ederle beat all existing records in her swim across the English channel. She was received with greater acclaim than any in American history. And Peggy Joyce, who was on the same boat, wasn't noticed.

Following close upon her heels came a mother of two children, Mrs. Corson, another American, who negotiated the channel.

The spotlight has now sought the form of another conqueror of the briny deep and Herb Vierkotter's manly physique attracts the public eye. The German baker has broken Trudie's record, and the game little Miss from Manhattan, with true American spirit, sends a challenge along with her congratulations.

Everything is, therefore, going along swimmingly, and in the end the motion picture will reap the greater harvest.

Heating Up.

The senatorial race over in Louisiana is waxing hotter and hotter. Messrs. Broussard, Huey Long and others are building sundry and divers fires under the coat tails of one, Ex-Gov. Sanders.

To the people of Mississippi the whole thing boils down to this: Are we to have free bridges, or must we pay toll to enter the state of Louisiana? Were it left to the Mississippians, Senator Broussard would be elected by acclamation. The people of this state, far poorer than our neighbors, are erecting toll-free bridges along the Old Spanish Trail, and they cannot understand why they should be forced to pay at the Louisiana link.

The cauldron has dollar signs festooned all around it.

LUMBERJACKS LOSE TO BILOXI SECOND PLACERS

Kilm, Miss., Sept. 3.—The Kiln Lumberjacks lost their game here Sunday to the Edwards Butler lumber company, who finished second in the Hancock City League pennant race, by the score of 7 to 4. The teams played an even brand of ball throughout the contest, with the exception of the ninth, when the "Elver Boys" scored three runs, icing the game. "Old Man" Summers, lumberjack ace, went in the box crippled and was forced to retire in favor of Lee, relief pitcher, in the sixth. Lee pitching fairly good ball.

The visitors showed a wonderful pitchers in Prade, a big league prospect, who held the hard-hitting Lumberjacks to eight hits and was invincible in the pinches.

"Steve" Mauffray, a local boy, made his debut with the Lumberjacks, replacing Greene, right-fielder, in the fifth stanza and made a good showing, getting one hit out of two times up, this bingle bringing in two men.

Madeline has just been released from the infirmary after a long and somewhat serious illness. She informs that her life hung in the balance for some days, but a miracle occurred and she is now in full recovery.

BEAUTIFUL BUNGALOW IS COMPLETED.

The beautiful bungalow erected by Contractor John Buehler on Court street for McMurray Bargard has received its finishing touches and made ready for occupancy.

An inspection of the new Bargard home elicits much praise for the builder, it is a finished product of the carpenter's art in every detail and will be as cozy a home as man can desire.

The bungalow contains five rooms and bath, has every modern convenience, all built-in features are carried on throughout the house; the walls and ceiling are of sheet rock, beautiful and substantial, a pretty garage in the rear is in keeping with the pretty structure.

The Bargard bungalow is the only residence on the south side of Court street and if the future builders on that side adhere to the Buehler idea the section would attract favorable notice for its beauty and taste. Contractor Buehler says he can complete such a residence in six weeks.

ST. JOSEPH'S TO OPEN TUESDAY

St. Joseph's academy will open its 1926-27 session Tuesday, Sept. 7, when students will be classified and book lists issued. Active classroom work will begin on Wednesday. The same faculty as last year will conduct the school, with the addition of one new sister. The prospects for the coming session are bright and all parents of the school are urged to see to it that the students be present each day of the school year. There will be no formal opening exercises.

MAGAZINE TO BOOST COAST.

Stanley Kimmel, of the editorial department of the travel magazine, Journeys Beautiful, published in New York City, was in Bay St. Louis Friday morning in the interest of his magazine. The magazine is to feature as its mid-winter number New Orleans and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Mr. Kimmel stated that the yes of the entire nation are turned to this section and it is due to this interest that the decision was made to issue this number depicting the south's newest playground. He announces that it is through the articles and views dealing with the Coast section, submitted by interested persons, that the material for the issue will be obtained, and he requests that various organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce and individuals who are well informed regarding the section send material to the editorial department of Journeys Beautiful, 8 West 40th Street, New York City. Material will be received until the end of this month, stated Mr. Kimmel, and that which is used or publication will be purchased by his magazine.

Misses Annie, Ida and Bertie Pallet and Miss Ruth Megel, of New Orleans, returned home Sunday after spending a few days with Mrs. Alice Bobbit, of Nicholson avenue.

STORK IN HURRICANE.

Brings Nine-Pound Heir During Roar of Storm.

When the recent gale was blowing big guns and the most daring were want to shelter themselves from the destructive elements, Old Doc Stork was on a journey with a heavy load, unmindful of the howling gale. He stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Wolfe on Main street, where he deposited his pink and white burden who tipped the scale at the handsome figure of nine pounds.

The little visitor was accorded a very hearty welcome by our friend Townsend, who had realized his hopes—the hope of every married man—a bouncing boy.

It is rumored that the elated Townsend rose with a whoop that could be heard far above the raging gale, and forgetting that there was such a thing as a storm, he was on the point of dashing out into the night in order to advise the whole wide world of his great good fortune, when, Mrs. Wolfe stopped his mad efforts!

"Old Man" Wolfe has introduced his heir about town and begs the general public to remember that hereafter such a personage as Mr. John Calvin Wolfe (Jack Wolfe) will be domiciled at Main near Nicasie avenue.

Mr. Foster Commagere, the famous coach of St. Stanislaus college, has returned from an extended trip north and east and is preparing to put his nationally known "Rock-a-Chaw" athletes through their paces as soon as school opens.

Now that the Board of Aldermen and Mayor has fumigated its sidewalk ordinance, there exists no further excuse why the city should remain with "ragged edges" along the streets, especially the paved ones. The ordinance is quite explanatory and explains itself. Every property owner should read and keep a copy.

Mr. C. G. Moreau, publisher of The Echo, is due home today, accompanied by Mrs. Moreau, after a three weeks' absence spent traveling and visiting, especially Quebec and Montreal, Canada, and in New York City. Letters received at this office state the itinerary included places of unusual interest and the trip delightful in every phase.

Mr. O. T. Harper and family have left for Bogtown, where she will teach school this session. Mrs. Harper was connected with the Bay High school last year and taught summer school and music this summer and her students pupils have persuaded her to return next year to continue summer work here. Miss Harper will be available to report until the first part of October.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Farr and family have returned to their home in New Orleans on Lopez street, after spending their summer vacation at the Bay home on Union street. The Farris are much interested in the coast and have spent the last several summers here.

Miss Madeline, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samson Barran, is expected on Saturday for a stay of some days. Madeline has just been released from the infirmary after a long and somewhat serious illness. She informs that her life hung in the balance for some days, but a miracle occurred and she is now in full recovery.
